ST. LOUIS – The Sheldon presents blues guitarist Marquise Knox, Friday, November 28 at 8 p.m. in The Sheldon Ballroom. St. Louis native Marquise Knox has made a name for himself as one of today's great young blues performers. He spent his early teenage years mentoring under the late great blues legend, N.E.A. Heritage Fellowship recipient and Grammy Award winner Henry James Townsend, and he has gone on to perform with some of America's most notable blues performers including B.B. King, Pinetop Perkins and David "Honeyboy" Edwards.

Knox has performed at dozens of festivals, and has toured Germany and played the Baden Blues Festival in Switzerland. He was honored by Living Blues Magazine with their Best Debut Award for Man Child, which was also nominated by the Blues Foundation for Best New Debut Release. STL Bluesweek also honored Knox with its Rising Star Award in 2012.
